

Bigger nappies

The only supermarket to make nappies specifically for older children (not pyjama pants) is Tesco. Their larger nappies come in two sizes; Junior and Junior plus, and are considerably cheaper than pyjama pants.

Lidl / Aldi also do continence pads for adults in medium and large which are reasonably priced and fit older children.

Other options:

Amazon has a few different brands of adult incontinence pad that would be suitable for children (see link below).

Local Pharmacies:

It is worth speaking to someone at your local pharmacy. Bigger ones often stock a wide range of adult nappies and incontinence products, and they will be able to help you find the right size. You can always get a small trial pack to see what works.

Specialist websites:

There are a few sites specifically for nappies and incontinence provision for adults and children that have lots of options in different price ranges:

Marks and Spencer's also do a range of adaptive clothing for children which may be useful:

Coats: For children in wheelchairs, fledglings (mentioned above) do some reasonable covers to keep children properly warm in their wheelchairs outside. Another option is bundlebean, which have a great, child friendly wheelchair range. They are a bit pricier, but we can help apply for funding from Family Fund for this if you think it would be useful.
